Harmony Array

Elevating Overhead Glazing Performance with Exceptional Thermal Efficiency

Harmony Array is a next-generation modular rooflight system from Adlux, designed and developed in New Zealand to meet the growing demand for large-scale, thermally broken roof glazing. With a fully welded frame and a continuous thermal break throughout, it delivers exceptional thermal performance without compromising clean lines, design flexibility, or architectural intent. Factory-glazed and custom-manufactured in modular units, Harmony Array allows for efficient on-site installation and can be configured to virtually any length, forming a flush, continuous rooflight tailored to your project needs. Built for performance and aesthetics, it's the ideal roof glazing solution for creating high-performing building envelopes across all climate zones—bringing in more natural light while maintaining energy efficiency, weather protection, and a contemporary style.
